

The sequence of diagrams illustrates the construction of a 2x2 grid of squares. It begins with two separate squares. In the next steps, a third square is added to the right of the first square, and then a fourth square is added to the right of the second square. The final diagram shows a completed 2x2 grid of four squares.