

A 6x6 grid where some cells are enclosed by thick black borders. The thick borders form a continuous path that starts at the top-left corner, goes right across the first row, down the second column, right across the third row, down the fourth column, right across the fifth row, and finally down the sixth column. This leaves several cells open, specifically those in the top-right, middle-right, and bottom-right areas of the grid.