

A 10x10 grid with 30 black circles scattered across it, representing a sparse random distribution. The circles are distributed across the grid, with some appearing in clusters and others isolated. The grid lines are thin and light gray, while the circles are solid black with thin outlines. The overall pattern is irregular and non-uniform, characteristic of a random distribution.